INSTRUCTIONS TO CONTRIBUTORS

General. Manuscripts should be typewritten (in pica size), double spaced, with margins of 2 cm on both sides, on standard A4 size white paper (21 cm×30 cm). Two copies, the original and one duplicate copy, must be submitted to the editorial office while a third copy should be kept by the author.

The number of pages of a manuscript should not exceed, in principle, a maximum of thirty in standard size (average 25 lines in length per page) including figures. (One figure is counted as 1/2 page; one simple picture for illustrations is counted as 1/4. If a figure is composed of several parts such as (a), (b), ..., each part is counted likewise.) In the exceptional case that the number of manuscript pages unavoidably exceed 30, the manuscripts will be published only if it is judged specially significant by the editorial committee on the basis of referees' opinions. In no case may the number of pages exceed 45. In this case the publication may be somewhat deferred.

The text must consist of an abstract, the body of the paper (including tables and figure captions) and references. Any recent issue of this journal may be referred to for examples of general style, arrangement, abbreviations, etc.

The prime requisite is that the copy shall be clear to typesetter, who is neither a physicist nor a mathematician.

Alterations in the text should be avoided once the paper is set in type. Authors will be charged for excessive corrections.

Abstract. An abstract should be confined to one page of manuscript; it must indicate the scope of the research and principal findings.

References. References should be numbered consecutively in the order of their appearance and listed after the text. Each citation should be referred to in the text by the key number. The form of the citations should conform to those used in this journal.

Citations from sources other than journals or books are to be referred to in footnotes.

Mathematical expression. It is desirable to type all mathematical and chemical symbols, equations and formulas, leaving enough space above and below for printer's marks. If these should have to be handwritten for any reason, print them clearly and carefully. Be sure to distinguish between capital and small letters. Identify in the margin Greek letters and unusual symbols. Superscripts and subscripts should be placed carefully, using inverted carets and carets, respectively. Complicated usage of both superscript and subscript must be avoided. Use the solidus (/) for fractions in order to save vertical space and to facilitate typesetting at the same time. Avoid repetition of a complicated expression by representing it by some convenient symbol.

Tables. Tables should be typed on separate sheets and numbered in roman numerals. Avoid complicated column headings.

Figures. Authors are cautioned that all figures must be submitted in a form ready for reproduction, on sheets separate from the running text. Drawings should be carefully made using India ink on white paper and all lines should be of sufficient thickness to reproduce well. The author's name and figure numbers should appear on the lower right-hand part of the page. Figure caption should be collected on separate sheets at the end of the manuscript.

Letters to the Editor. A letter must be shorter than 120 lines of 17 cm length typewritten in pica size. This must include the spaces for mathematical expressions, figures and tables.

i) A mathematical expression typewritten in one line must be counted as two lines of text. The one containing fractions is to be counted as three lines.

ii) In printing, all figures are contracted to one-column (6 cm) or two-columns (12 cm) in width. With the height h (in cm) reduced this way, the space of the figure is counted as (3/2) h (or twice that if 12 cm is used) lines of typed text.

Publication charges. The author's institution is requested to pay a publication charge of 4,000 yen per page. This also applies to a Letter to the Editor.

Reprints. Authors are entitled to receive 100 reprints free of charge. Additional reprints, a multiple of 50, can be obtained at 8 yen per page.
